Visit Navarre Beach

Whether you're visiting the beach to watch the sunrise or sunset, putting your toes in the sand is the best way to relax, whether strolling or stationary. Think of this place on slender Santa Rosa Island as your own private Florida beach — open to the public. That's because, regardless of the season, Navarre Beach's four miles of pristine shoreline, with the crystalline blue-green waters of the Gulf of Mexico as a backdrop and offering spectacular sunsets does not get crowded. Imagine arriving, beach gear in tow, and staking out an ample piece of real estate on sands that are a whiter shade of white. Sure, some other folks may be within a stone's throw, or may amble by, but essentially you'll have a lovely piece of paradise all for yourself and your family. Gaze out at the crystalline blue-green waters. For a change of scenery, check out Navarre Beach Fishing Pier — the longest pier in Florida.
